

Jonathan's Theory About The Alec Baldwin Movie Set

1. Due to my secret importance over the years, including my weekly influences on SNL on which I report-out weekly on Facebook, but also significant influences re Cameron, McCartney, Lennon, Spielberg, Jagger, you name it, "super-villains" of the world find ways to "leave stuff on my doorstep", so to speak, in advance of crap happening, e.g., re 911, the death of Princess Di. However, no one investigates as they would if such crap landed on the doorstep of someone such as Spielberg, McCartney, etc.
2. Recently I paused some movie that had Snow White as a character, to resume watching it another time. There is absolutely nothing in particular re Snow White to associate with me, I have no special interest.
3. The following day I received an email from my sister with a link to an article re something to do with Disney's Snow White. It sometimes happens that it seems to me someone gets my sister to respond to the wishes of some "invisible party" re myself, which I ascribe to my secret importance. In this case, I determined that the "invisible party" was in a position to monitor my TV viewing, DVR tech infiltrated or some such. And designed to creep me out in this instance.
4. Several days later, Thursday, the Alec Baldwin gun situation. (note: Baldwin is often associated with playing Trump on SNL, the kind of thing that leads "super-villains" to want to start something).
5. The next day, my DVR recorded an episode of "Perry Mason", as I had pre-programmed it. The episode that aired was in the normal chronological sequence of the episodes being aired on FETV. It was the Mason episode about an onset gun being "accidentally loaded", leading to an onset death. This is what I call "something left on my doorstep", in terms of it leaving it for me to put together the creepy Snow White / DVR thing described above with this creepy alignment of events re my DVR. That they can intimidate or trick my sister to "participate" is not new to me, and it is useless for me to press her. I expect they have big guns not loaded with blanks, or something such as that. Not unexpected, re family of the super-important, even though I am only "secretly" super-important.
6. Several days ago I recorded a movie on my DVR where Bruce Dern plays a mailman who incites a man to get violent about his undelivered package.
7. Concurrent with my recording of this movie, two packages delivered from two different places on Dec. 8th and 9th were stolen from doorstep. I checked the photograph that was part of a confirmation of delivery of one of the packages, by contacting the seller, and it did indeed reach my doorstep. It either was stolen by the delivery person after he took the photograph, or a neighbor, presumably. The other package, confirmed delivered by Ontrac, also did not reach me, though I have not been able to get a photograph of delivery, therefore I do not know as exactly about that matter as with the other delivery confirmed yet not received. This perfectly matched the package-not-delivered movie on my DVR, recorded immediately prior (one day) to my own package issue.
8. Hopefully there are now enough loose ends here that can be used to get to the bottom of the Perry Mason episode / Alec Baldwin "episode" matter. This writing is my first time "reporting" anything about this in any way, my hope having been that my ignoring the first stuff would provoke follow-up stuff, which may be part of what facilitated the package matter.